About the Conference

Technology is changing the world at warp speed. Health care is growing increasingly complex, and most clinical research focuses on new approaches to diagnosis and treatment. Transformations taking place in nursing and nursing education have been driven by developments in health care delivery: Patients, in all settings, deserve care that is centred on their unique needs and not what is most convenient for the health professionals involved in their care. A transformed health care system is required to achieve this goal. Transforming the health care system will in turn require a fundamental rethinking of the roles of many health professionals, including nurses. Nurses have the opportunity to play a central role in transforming the health care system to create a more accessible, high-quality, and value-driven environment for patients. There is a need to transform nursing education to work effectively with other health professionals in a fast-changing health system, globally. Nursing education must keep pace with practice innovations and changes in health care delivery system. Today's nurses require an expanded skill set that includes knowledge of the science and medical technology to function and manage in a highly complex patient care environment.

The objective of the conference is to,
